Local Arts Grant Funds Lansing Workshop

By Dianne Strohmman

Last Saturday afternoon, the Lansing Parks and Recreation Department presented drawing workshop for 14 adults and children at the Lansing Elementary School.

Thanks to a grant from the Community Arts Partnership, internationally known Tompkins County scientist and wildlife artist Karen Alaben-Confer guided the group on a tour of her varied adventures in Trinidad and off the coast of Maine where she seeks to draw birds in their natural habitats.

Karen explained how she blends her intense love of the environment with her artwork. Karen has a unique way of blending pencil and pastels into a rich, yet subtle, textural composition. She described her tools and techniques and led participants through a series of drawing exercises to help each person create his or her own unique "Nature Diary".

Each participant was given a copy of Karen's wonderful drawing of puffins entitled "Little Brother of the Sea." This work was shown in a round-the-world exhibition of wildlife art.

Lansing participants Cindy and David Lion, Chris Nuttle, Julie Manners, Hannah and Walker Dieboldt, Amy and Vincent Redmond, Dianne, Rachel and Ben Strohmman, and Sharon, Shawn and Kim Jaenson expressed their appreciation to Town of Lansing Recreation Department director Stephen Colt for facilitating the workshop.
