Lions Recognize 11 In Community

The Lansing Lions' 3rd Community Recognition Night dinner (catered Monday, May 5 by the No. Lansing Auxiliary at the Auburn Road Fire Hall) honored ten Lansingites for their contributions to the community.

Lion Pete Larson cited Chuck Crandall for his continuing contributions to youth and adult sports in our town. Lion Ray Buckley recalled how the teaching careers of Ev and Meredith Davis had positively influenced several thousand Lansing students.

Lion Ralph Lobdell honored Pete Larson for his work on behalf of Hospicare, for his scholarships to graduating seniors and support for girls' basketball. Mary Searles was Lion Bob Baker's sponsor for her work with the elderly, the Food pantry and numerous other town associations.

Lion Tom Todd said that Andy and Rosemary Sciarabba represented the "spirit of Lansing" in making the RINK a reality for everyone. Eileen Cundy was called a "tremendous leader" for her work at Woodsedge as president and for helping organize the Bonnet Brigade that produced headwear for women undergoing chemotherapy.

Lion Nick Barra praised Bill Burin for his involvement with youth as a foster parent and, more recently, as Town Justice. Lion Bea Davis recognized Matt and Aline Shulman for their work with the local newspaper.

Go-Kart Track Mediation Suspended

A second mediation session scheduled for last Friday at the Community Dispute Resolution Center between proponents and opponents of a small Go-Kart track planned for the northwest corner of the Buck & Conlon Road intersection was called off on the advice of counsel, according to developer Glenn Fenner.

Contacted Monday morning, neighbor

Pam Van Gelder was unable to make any comment. "We agreed not to comment publicly until all mediation routes were exhausted," she said. "I am in the process of double checking with the CDRC to find out the current status of the negotiations." Track opponents will likely get together later this week to discuss future steps.

Services with You in Mind.

We've redesigned our space to make it easier for you to visit us for same-day tests or treatments. Our new Outpatient Services area puts all outpatient needs in one place — reception, pre-admission testing, radiology testing, cardiopulmonary services (EEG, EKG, 24-hour EKG/Holter monitoring, pulmonary function tests), stress testing, the vascular laboratory, phlebotomy drawing station, rehabilitation services, and speech therapy. And our central scheduling office coordinates appointments for the services you require so you can take care of multiple outpatient needs in a single visit. For scheduling outpatient services, call us at 607-274-4227.
